In cycling circles it is said that we may look out shortly for the 'polycycle' omni bus. The polycycle omnibus, the Daily News says, will be a sort of clongated tandem trievole, with a seating capacity for sight or ten persons, who will ride in couples side by side. Passengers will be expected to do their fair share of the work; but the steering agrangements, will be entirely in the hands of the official in front-we cannot call him the driver-who will be responsible in one of accident. Penny fares will be the rule, as with omcibuses. A limited liability company is to be floated, if possible, to start the new venture.

FRACRANT WATERS' MURMUR That Captalle Romsoy, our worthy Harbour-Master, has been called upon this week to enforce some of the more bother some provisions of the new Karbour Ordinance.

That these prosecutions, however they may be decided, will perhaps do more t demonstrate the points therein involved than all the discussions shout them.

That, in order to make shooting, bathing and other pleasure launch trips in the neighbourhood as easy and as free from annoyance as possible, the Kowloon Customs authorities provided private launch ewners with half-yearly or annual passes or permits.

That this concession made matters smooth with the Customs outside the waters of the Colony.

That the inconvenience of the so-called espiopage outside being thus provided against, it is natural that residents would feel all the greater surprise when they were summoned by their own Government for leaving the waters of the Colony without permission.

hat there may be some very good reason why vessels under 60 tons, carrying cargo, etc., should be placed under some sort of surreillance.

That ordinary people can see in this role nothing more than an aid to the Customs people, and, so far as can be discovered, the Custome folks are quite satisfied without it.

That the cry against the Customs 'espionage comes with a questionable grace from the Hongkong officials who propose to hamper our movements even more than the Customs people do.

That the clause in the new Ordinance, providing for what may be a permit issued from time to time for a period-somewhat after the fashion of the Customs passes—ought to take the edge off the inconvenience.

That it would have been well had this clause been more fully explained when the Bill was before the Legislative Counoil, and it would not even have been deregatory to the dignity of the Harbour Department if a n tice had been sent to the leading owners of private launches stating that such special permits could be obtained.

That all the talk which took p'ace about getting a permit to go out for an hour's blow east or west of the harbour, and about whether the Harbour Office would be shut or open, sounds to me like sheer nonsense, and makes one feel that you cannot blow your nose without Government permission in this jewel of the great and free British Empire.

That the private steam-launch owner may go round our little Island, hugging the coast all the way, without a permit and without laying himself open to a penalty which makes the unexplained law all the more ridiculous.

language, writing over a somewhat sulphureous signature, in which atigmatises the Harbour Ordinance, instances the necessity of steam-launches seeking shelter in the bays of the mainland in bad weather, and asks if a penalty would be incurred if they steam away without a clearance.

That Clause 13 of the Ordinance (Sect. 7) fully provides for this contingency, and therefore this indignant correspondent's criticism entirely misses the markindeed, he has got no target to fire at.

That there are plenty of features in the Ordinance to tilt at without laying one careleganess.

That, in face of the readiness evinced by the Governor to modify some of the more vexatious provisious of the Harbour Bill it is a pity nothing sayet has been done to stop the prosecutions under these provisions-prosecutions which have a petty look about then which is calculated to bring the dignity of the law into con-

The great review of troops, for which preparations have been so long afoot, was held to day by the Viceroy on the large parade ground behind His Excellency's yaman, that is the one in which the military exeminations take place. One side of the ground was nearly covered by a long line of stands or sheds, for the ac commodation of the Viceroy, Provincial Tressurer. Salt Commissioner and other high officials, a large, uncovered band stand occupying the remainder of the site reserved for His Excellency and suite. On the opposite end of the ground the great nawashed' crowded together in dense masses to watch the proceedings from a number of large mounds of earth sat apart for their use. So numerous were the neople that they frequently spread out over the parade ground, when they were driven back by the military police, who ne their long bamboo batons freely. troops in review order are divided into tens, each body of ten men being commanded by a petty officer, who carries the flag of his section. The day's proceedings conclud ed with a sham fight. The men did not seem to keep very evenly in line, but I asw no soldier losing his place either in quick marching or the rapid forming of squares and columns. The bayonet exercise was gone through very emertly, and the various movements into live and square and the formation for the reception of a pavairy charge were all equally good. The firing was well up to the average, and was surprising to see now rapidly the soldiers were able to load their old musels loading touckets. The was supplied chiefly by pipes and drams and, with all its strangeness, the general effect of it was martial and inspiring. which played the ordinary quick-step we Statistical Boolety by Mr John Glover. use at home. I am afraid the marching, The particulars are the more interesting here and there was not strictly in secondance with Western ideas, as far as the necessity of keeping stap is concerned; but the erder was not lost.

Yesterday and to day the largest rocession of the year, the Yung Yoh-hieat, has been marching through the city. Images of Hwang Fei-liu, the god of Taishan, or the Yang yok, the Great Monntain of Shantung, his wife, the god of riches, and three other deities were carried about in richly descrated chairs. Long trains of drupled. The growth between 1870 and men and hove followed, some bearing anterns, others umbrelles, and igain, banners; and all of them richly ressed. This procession is paid for subscriptions. Throughout all the bustle of these two busy days everything has remained quiet and peaceful, and we have been treated quite politely out of doors.

BRITISH MARITIME PROGRESS The maritime progress of England during the decade 1880.99 formed the basis of valuable paper read before the Royal and important, as they range back over a period of forty years, dating from the repeal of the Navigation Laws, and Mr Glover enjoys the advantage of baving himself recorded the facts from time to time at the close of each decade, his present paper being the fourth of a series. In his first statement he showed that the total entries and dearances at posts in the United Kingdom in 1850 were under 40,000,000 tons. In 1890 the amount was more than qua-1880 was vast, and it is to be observed that the increase in the last decade, though less.

was still great. Labour troubles have lately affected the shipping industry of this country; but the establishment of the Foderstion of Shipping of the United Kingdom is described as having helped the shipowners -at least for the present-to preserve for themselves and their cantains and chicers & due measure of control over the mavigation of their vessels. The increase of 10.000 000 tons in the coal export of 1890, compared The following are the items in the Navy | with 188 ', is mentioned as explaining how our increased fleet finds outward cargoes. The number of new vessels built in 1890 exseeded that of any previous year, and out cast-off ships (1.000 sailing yeareis and 300 steamers) would as it is remarked, make increasing, not merely according to the enlargement of the population, but as a result of our increased spending power, and our higher standard of comfort. Twothirds of our daily bread comes to us thus, and the imputed value of the five principal articles of consumption is squal to 2,000,000L, starling per week. We may boast of the amasing growth of our Blercantile Marine, but let us also remember that this is the work in which it is largely engaged; and though the performance may be called a miracle of modern commerce. it is one of those miracles that sometimes end in grave disasters. Mr Glover does not say as much ; but his figures clearly

SHE WILL NEVER TELL THE SECRET. Here is a piece of glass; it is ent into facets; t is pure white glass; it is fit to be one of the pendants hanging from a chandelier in a millionaire's drawing room; it is about as big as a hazelant. How it sparkles as I hold it no between my themb and finger ! Yet it is merely glass and scarcely worth a shilling ... oh ! if ! only knew how to turn it into a dismond !- a blue or a rose diamond ! Why, there are thousands who would give all their health, and then mortgage their souls; to bay it of me. Then d bye-to work and care; for I should be rich and the dreams of avarige. Who will show the process? Alast nobody. Who will tell how to transmute tin or coppor into shining 7 Alas nobody. A hit of coal is carbon, is mond is also carbon. Where is the link ween thom? We yearn to know. Thouds of men have burned out life's candle in effort to ascertain. How vainly! In the om of her hills Nature bides that secret, as hides the scoret of man's destiny mides untains of ashes and crambling bones. On bended knees we beg her to break one unken seal, to speak one maspoken word. She ly regards us with contemptuous pity and reas for eyer dumb ... Yet, is there no other mystery, just as deep, it comes home to your thoughts in a way to think a minute, man. Wha lds and repairs the house you live in, that is, n' body? What changes a lost of bread into ves, flesh, skin and muscle? What does this mean? as when a lady says of
